

Dear all,

As part of its collaboration with Vinmonopolet, Systembolaget and Alko, Equalitas announces that it will take part in the free seminars on labour related matters organized by Stronger Together.

Stronger Together is a non-profit organisation that helps companies to fight forced labour and exploitation of workers within the supply chain. Through sensibilisation and specific formation, Stronger Together aims to help Vinmonopolet e its related realities (Norwegian importers and Italian suppliers) to prevent and recognize possible working force exploitation.

Focusing on the current challenges and risks in the Italian agricultural and wine supply chain, we are pleased to let you know that you are invited to the awareness raising webinar and the Interactive training session about preventing forced labour in the Italian wine supply chain. These sessions will be held in Italian.

These meetings are meant to specifically address the wine sector. In these interactive online sessions, participants will learn what forced labour, human trafficking and other forms of hidden labour exploitation are, the potential risk and impacts to businesses in the agriculture and wine sector, and the necessary steps they can take to deter, detect and deal with it, while keeping a responsible recruitment process.
